🌟 2021 was a year of stepping out on faith and no longer accepting less than what I deserve in ANY area of my life.

👋👋 October 25th, 2021 was the best but scariest step of my life leaving a job of 28 years that was reduced to depression....stagnation....and just plain unacceptable treatment. New motto: "Don't be loyal to others while being disloyal to yourself, years in front are more important than years behind !!

🌟🌟 I took a position as a Warehouse Coordinator, in Arlington, that includes my own office...great pay...great hours...instant insurance... bonuses... and a great staff that believes in my ability.

❤️❤️ Not wanting to leave my mom, she still encouraged me to do what I needed to do because she knew first hand what I was going through. I appreciate my mom for, in a sense, releasing me of any guilt of leaving her to being happy and living for me. No better Mom than Eva ❤️❤�

❤️❤� I also want to shout out to my kids.. Cortney Haynes, Aleesa Coffler DJ Brown, Aleesha Coffler and Shearren Johnson and Marcellus Haynes my brothers Aransome KaossBeats Ingram Jr. and Derrick Horne and also my pastor Randy Ross and Impact Church for either listening to my hrs of venting and crying or just always encouraging me to keep pushing. Also a few friends as well.

👉👉 By December 1st, I moved into my first EVER apartment and I LOVE IT ❤️❤� (except paying rent now 😅😅) but I am excited about starting over and meeting new people.

❤️❤� Loving life and living life is so so very important. Sometimes the life we are trying to create isn't the life we are suppose to have. I am grateful to GOD for closing those doors at Target to open better doors that make me smile and keeping me alive to finally feel free.

😅 Everyone should reevaluate their life at some point 🙏 and do what brings you the most joy. Whether you have to let go of people, places or things, you will be glad 😊 you did. My travel business has picked up and I'll be doing taxes as well soon.

🙏🙏 2021 was the beginning of a GREAT 2022 for me and I give all the Glory to God and because of his grace and mercy, success, love, peace and prosperity will follow. Happy New Year and stay safe 🙏🙏

My life...
Last weekend we were headed out of town to care for Mark's Dad but Jake was going to be home to work. Freezing nights were coming so I wanted him to cover my garden after the one nice sunny day.
Me: So... tomorrow I need you to cover the 2 beds before you go to work. The things are... and you'll need to grab the... and you cover like so... Me basically over-explaining things.
Jake: Mom, you know I've helped Dad cover the greens at the golf courses my whole life, right?
Think I've got your 2 raised beds okay. 🙄 #golfcourselife #superintendant

I woke up to a good friend is struggling after she learned her friend committed suicide earlier this week. He shot himself in front of his wife no less. I can't stop thinking about how much pain someone is in to kill themselves. Anyway, please pray for my friend Joan, she's a recovering alcoholic and already struggling with her own depression and anxiety, so she needs our prayers to stay positive and sober. I love this woman like my sister and she needs our love.

I remember the day I had this pic taken of my favorite riding buddy at Lake Whitney mx. Never thought that I would cherish it so much. Every time I look at it I smile. That was a great day. Look at the intensity in his eyes. He's having a blast! I still smile every time we get to gear up and ride together. And today will be another memory making day at barnwell mountain. I love you Drake.
